Last Household Chemical & Electronics Collection of 2014

Dig through your closets in preparation for the last electronics collection before the holidays! If you're expecting a new computer with a shiny big bow under your tree, maybe it's time to let that old "emergency" computer go. The same thing goes for the old handheld games and that ancient zip drive. You certainly don't want any children to get into the old chemicals under your sink or in the garage. Clean it all out and have a sparkling clean and safe holiday season!

So pack all of the above and more into your trunk or the back of your truck, and let the friendly folks conducting the VPPSA Household Chemical and Electronics Collection take it off your hands. Hampton residents (of course) and other VPPSA community residents are welcome to attend.
